Here's What The Democrats Think About KENNEDY!

- Harry Truman: "Senator, are you certain that you are quite ready for the country or that the country is ready for you in the role of President in January, 1961? I am greatly concerned and troubled about the situation we are up against in the world now and in the immediate future. That is why I would hope that someone with the greatest possible maturity and experience would be available at this time." (New York Herald Tribune,
- Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.): "Kennedy lacks the age and experience to be President in these perilous days. I find it difficult to be secure in the thought of his sitting down with the Adenauers, the De Gaulles, the Macmillans and the Khrushchevs as our country wrestles with important problems in the field of international affairs."
- (Baltimore Sun, 4/14/60) • Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.): "It's easy for someone to say, 'I can lead a great cause,' but untested we cannot put faith and confidence and our perpetuity in hands like that." (New York Times,
- Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.): "His statements in regard to campaign expenses are further evidence as to his lack of qualifications for the Presidency. The American people should make clear to Senator Kennedy that the White House will never be put up for sale . . . it is obvious that the truth is not in him." (Baltimore Sun,

7/14/60)

- Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.): (Shouting to α Washington State Democratic Convention at Spokane): "I am not prepared to apologize to Mr. Khrushchev—are you? I am not prepared to send regrets to Mr. Khrushchev-are you?" New York Times, 5/31/60)
- Dean Acheson: "Too young . . . still a very young man and unformed . . . He needs to ripen. (Wash, Daily News, 1/14/59)
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "Kennedy is the spoiled candidate and he and that young, emotional, juvenile, Bobby are spending with wild abandon." (Washington Star, 5/8/60 and Baltimore Sun, $/9/60)
- Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.): "The Vice Presidency is a good place for a young man who needs experience. It's a good place for a young man who needs training." (In Los Angeles July 8, 1960)
- Adlai Stevenson: "The amount of money being spent on Kennedy's campaign is phenomenal, probably the highest amount spent on a campoign in history." (Newsweek, 2/29/60)

- Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.): "I haven't had anything given to me. Whatever I have and whatever I hope to get will be because of whatever energy and talent I have." (In Los Angeles July 13, 1960) • Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "Kennedy
- voted against the people's interest on such issues as agriculture, rural telephone assistance and library, highway and hospital construction." (Washington Post, 5/9/60) • Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "I can't afford to run around this State (West Virginia) with a little black bag and a checkbook. I don't think elections should be bought. Let that sink in deeply." (New York Times, 4/28/60) • Paul Butler, former Democratic National Chairman: Adlai Stevenson is "the one man in this country best qualified to be President." (United

- Press International, 5/2/60) • Electror Roosevelt: "In a number of ways Senator Kennedy has antagonized the mass of Negroes, and they will not vote for him at the head of the ticket." (Washington Daily News, 7/12/60
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): In switching his convention vote from Kennedy to Stevenson: This is anything else but a protest vote—it is concern for my country." (Associated Press, 7/13/60)
- Sen. Joseph Clark (D-Pa.): "I think the Senate will pass a minimum wage increase if we can just get Sonny Boy back from the cricks and hollers long enough to report it out of his committee." (Pittsburgh Press, 5/11/60)
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "My opponent and his campaign aides may feel it is possible to buy a state, but they certainly can't hope to win by such tactics in November." (Washington Post, 5/9/60)
- Adlai E. Stevenson: "Moreover, as I said when I was Governor of Illinois, in 1952, I don't see how any office holder can participate in a nationwide primary campaign without neglecting the job the people elected him to do." (This Week, 2/28/60)
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "I didn't expect it to become so bitter. This is just cheap, lowdown gutter politics. Anyone who gets in the way of teacher's pet-I should change that to papa's pet-is going to be destroyed. Bobby said if they had to spend a half a million to win here (West Virginia) they would do it." (Washington Star, 5/8/60)

Here's What The Democrats Think About KENNEDY!

- Harry Truman: "Senator, are you certain that you are quite ready for the country or that the country is ready for you in the role of President in January, 1961? I am greatly concerned and troubled about the situation we are up against in the world now and in the immediate future. That is why I would hope that someone with the greatest possible maturity and experience would be available at this time." (New York Herald Tribune,
- Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.): "Kennedy lacks the age and experience to be President in these perilous days. I find it difficult to be secure in the thought of his sitting down with the Adenauers, the De Gaulles, the Macmillans and the Khrushchevs as our country wrestles with important problems in the field of international affairs."
- (Baltimore Sun, 4/14/60) Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.): "It's easy for someone to say, 'I can lead a great cause,' but untested we cannot put faith and confidence and our perpetuity in hands like that." (New York Times, 7/14/60)
- Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.): "His statements in regard to campaign expenses are further evidence as to his lack of qualifications for the Presidency. The American people should make clear to Senator Kennedy that the White House will never be put up for sale . . . it is obvious that the truth is not in him." (Baltimore Sun,
- Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.): (Shouting to a Washington State Democratic Convention at Spokane): "I am not prepared to apologize to Mr. Khrushchev-are you? I am not prepared to send regrets to Mr. Khrushchev-are you?" (New York Times, 5/31/60)
- Dean Acheson: "Too young . . . still a very young man and unformed . . . He needs to ripen. (Wash. Daily News, 1/14/59)
- Son. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "Kennedy is the spoiled candidate and he and that young, emotional, juvenile, Bobby are spending with wild abandon." (Washington Star, 5/8/60 and Baltimore Sun, 5/9/60)
- Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.): "The Vice Presidency is a good place for a young man who needs experience. It's a good place for a young man who needs training." (In Los Angeles July
- Adlai Stevenson: "The amount of money being spent on Kennedy's campaign is phenomenal, probably the highest amount spent on a campaign in history." (Newsweek, 2/29/60)

- Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.): "I haven't had anything given to me. Whatever I have and whatever I hope to get will be because of whatever energy and talent I have." (In Los Angeles July 13, 1960) • Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "Kennedy
- voted against the people's interest on such issues as agriculture, rural telephone assistance and library, highway and hospital construction." (Washington Post, 5/9/60) Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "I can't afford to run around this State (West Virginia) with a little black bag and a checkbook. I don't think elections should be bought. Let that sink in

- deeply." (New York Times, 4/28/60) Paul Butler, former Democratic National Chairman: Adlai Stevenson is "the one man in this country best qualified to be President." (United
- Press International, 5/2/60) • Eleanor Roosevelt: "In a number of ways Senator Kennedy has antagonized the mass of Negroes, and they will not vote for him at the head of the ticket." (Washington Daily News, 7/12/60)
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): In switching his convention vote from Kennedy to Stevenson: This is anything else but a protest vote—it is concern for my country." (Associated Press, 7/13/60)
- Sen. Joseph Clark (D-Pa.): "I think the Senate will pass a minimum wage increase if we can just get Sonny Boy back from the cricks and hollers long enough to report it out of his committee." (Pittsburgh Press, 5/11/60)
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "My opponent and his campaign aides may feel it is possible to buy a state, but they certainly can't hope to win by such tactics in November." (Washington
- Adlai E. Stevenson: "Moreover, as I said when was Governor of Illinois, in 1952, I don't see hew any office holder can participate in a nationwide primary campaign without neglecting the job the people elected him to do." (This Week,
- Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.): "I didn't expect it to become so bitter. This is just cheap, lowdown gutter politics. Anyone who gets in the way of teacher's pet-I should change that to papa's pet—is going to be destroyed. Bobby said if they had to spend a half a million to win here (West Virginia) they would do it." (Washington Star, 5/8/60)

These studies show that increasing the chloride level of the soil through use of potassium chloride can definitely be harmful to the growth and development of young trees. Sulphate of potash, on the other hand, has proved safe for fruit tree fertility.

CHLORIDE PROMOTES LOSS OF OTHER NUTRIENTS

In a thesis for his M.S. degree, David Ross Dilley, of Michigan State University. studied the comparative effects of chloride and sulphate of potash to cherry, apple and peach trees. Following are some of his observations:

- Increasing the supply of chloride decreased all measurements of growth for trees
- Increasing the supply of chloride and sulphate together depressed growth in proportion to the chloride level.
- · Chloride promoted loss of nutrients from the soil, mainly calcium. And it depressed elements, such as potassium and sulphur.

Another report, contained American Society for Horticonducted by Drs. L. F. cultural Science pointed out Green, IMC Senior Research that under certain conditions, Agronomist and J. C. Engi, sulphate of potash may be the most effective form of potash for correcting potassium deficiency.

This study also suggested fertilizers!

Whether or not fertilizers containing chloride will harm fruit trees depends largely on soil type and structure.

That's pointed out in a study by David Ross Dilley at Michigan State. For example, it was found that acid-clay soils retain more chloride than more alkalineclay soils. And plants growing in soils high in organic matter can tolerate more chloride than plants growing in sandy soils.

The study showed that thloride promotes loss of nutrients from the soil (especially calcium) and reduces tree absorption of other elements (especially potassium). # Water-soluble Sul-Po-Mag prevents magnesium shortages...provides potash in sulphate form to guard against chlorine injury, supplies needed sulphur

With fruit growers putting more and more importance on complete (N-P-K) fertilizers, orchard yield and quality are at an all-time high. But both could be even higher for most growers . . . perhaps much higher. The reason is that many so-called "complete" fertilizers aren't complete enough. Often magnesium is missing.

Why the sudden shortage of magnesium? There are two answers. First, the problem of magnesium deficiency is not new to many groves, especially those grown on light, sandy soil. Perhaps the trouble has not been noticed until recently. It is a quality-damaging quirk of magnesium deficiency not to display visible symptoms for years . . . until after heavy losses have occurred

Secondly, on many soils the problem actually is a new one. And soil scientists believe the reason, oddly enough, is the increased use of potash in mixed fertilizers. Recent studies in North Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas, South Carolina, New York and Michigan - on cherries, peaches and apples - show that there is an important and positive interrelationship between the forms of potash and magnesium. It affects nutritional balance. And since this nutritional

CHLORIDE DEPRESSES GROWTH

In a study reported in May, 1960, the International Minerals & Chemical Corpo-

In a thesis for his M.S. degree, David Ross Dilley, of Michigan State University, studied the comparative efof potash to cherry, apple and peach trees. Following are some of his observations:

· Increasing the supply of ration Research Department chloride and sulphate together depressed growth in proportion to the chloride level.

One hundred pounds of Sul-Po-Mag contains 18.5 pounds of readily available and watersoluble magnesia. Ask your dealer to be sure to mix Sul-Po-Mag into your orchard fertilizers!

Chloride buildup related to soil type

Whether or not fertilizers containing chloride will harm fruit trees depends largely on soil type and structure.

That's pointed out in a study by David Ross Dilley at Michigan State. For example, it was found that acid-clay soils retain more chloride than more alkalineclay soils. And plants growing in soils high in organic matter can tolerate more chloride than plants growing | boost. in sandy soils.

The study showed that chloride promotes loss of nutrients from the soil (especially calcium) and reduces tree absorption of other elements (especially potassium). Secondly, on many soils the problem actually is a new one. And soil scientists believe the reason, oddly enough, is the increased use of potash in mixed fertilizers. Recent

FRIENDS OF PUBLIC EDUCATION

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

As Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania State School Directors Association, I have known Mr. George Goodling for several years in connection with my legislative work in the Pennsylvania State Legislature. I retired from this position as Executive Secretary after 23 years service on May 1, 1960.

I found Mr. Goodling to be a hard working, conscientious legislator with courage to stand by his convictions. He was vitally interested in education both from the standpoint of the teacher and the school board. He supported legislation to provide increased subsidies to school districts to the end that better salaries could be paid to teachers.

Mr. Goodling kept himself well informed by study and inquiry on all educational legislation. I feel that he voted at all times for the best interests of the teachers and school districts as well as his constituents who must pay the costs directly or indirectly.

Mr. Goodling was always ready to sponsor or co-sponsor sound educational legislation and did this on many occasions. I am pleased to say that Mr. Goodling is a true and loyal friend of education.

Sincerely yours,

Under the law the absencee vote is limited to persons who will be unavoidably absent from the poliing places on Nov. 8 or who cannot vote in person because of physical disability.

HAVE BEEN IMPORTANT

The State Elections Bureau does not compile statistics on absentee ballots of any kind. Though each county elections bureau knivos how many it distributes, those refurned for voting purposes are counted in with regular election figures. The result is there is no record of the number of absentee ballots east.

In 1956 the 67 counties distributed 33,138 military ballots and 1,180 hallots for hospitalized veterans. Of that total an estimated 16,000 were returned. Though President Eisenhower was re-elected, carrying Pennsylvania by more than 600,000 votes his running-mate, Sen, James H Duff, was defeated by Democrat Joseph Clark by a narrow margin. When the polls closed that year Clark held a lead of about 18,000 votes. Even if all of the absentee votes had gene against him, Clark still would have won.

NO PARTY TREND

However, sureys indicated the absentee ofc ran about two to one in favor of Eisenhower-Duff. If the same proportions held up this election—and there is nothing to indicate they would — there would be some 32,000 to 34,000 absentee ballots actually east. If the sentiment held up as it did in 1956-and again there is nothing to indicate it might—the absentee vote would be worth 10,000 to 12. 000 votes for the Democrats and 20,000 to 24,000 votes for the Republicans.

"The New Frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises—it is a set of challenges." JOHN F. KENNEDY

THE CHALLENGE

Fifty million Americans-more than one in form—have no insurance motection against the high cost of illness. For the rest, private health insurance pays on the average one third of the cost of medical cine.

The hardest bit are the nation's older people whose income is lowest precisely when medical costs are highest Heart disease and cancer together account for two out of every three deaths in this country. These diseases, along with arthritis, mental illness and other compling discuses, cost us $35 billion a vear. Federal appropriations for medical research are barely one percent of this total?

The Democt its view adequate medical care as a national problem, one in which the Federal Government must offer assistance. The Republicins say things are fine as they have made it a controversial and emotional subject The Democratic Platform proposes

'The right to adequate medical care and the opportunity to achieve and enjoy good health."

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM THE ANSWER

The Democratic platform does not shy away from the problem of medical care, even though ambitious Republican lobbyists in Washington

MEDICAL CARE for the aged financed through Social Security, without a paiper's oath to qualify. Medical benefits should be a right, not a charity

MEDICAL RESEARCH: The Democratic President will summon to a White House conference the nation's most distinguished scientists to map a coordinated long-range program for the prevention and control of major diseases. This cooperation will extend to other nations

HOSPITALS: Expand and improve the hospital construction program

DOCTORS: Federal aid for constructing, evpanding and modernizing schools of medieine, dentistry, nursing and public health scholarships and other assistance for medical education

MENTAL HEALTH: Provide greatly increased Federal support for psychiatric research and training and community mental health programs to help bring back thousands of our hospitalized mentally ill to full and useful lives in the community.

Senator Kennedy emphasizes that the need to protect the welfare of our older citizens is one of the great challenges of the Sixties, and adds "protecting them against the economic ravages of disease, chronic illness, and disability is at the very forefront of that challenge" Senator Johnson, answering the question whether the nation can "afford" to make adequate provision for our aged and our sick and our blind says: "I believe we would beas a nation-in far greater danger should we not do so than if we do make such responsible

STATE SENATE

"The New Frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises-it is a set of challenges. JOHN F. KENNEDY THE CHALLENGE

Fifty million Americans-more than one in four-have no insurance protection against the high cost of illness. For the rest, private health insurance pays, on the average, one-third of the cost of medical care.

The hardest hit are the nation's older people. whose income is lowest precisely when medi-

Heart disease and cancer together account for two out of every three deaths in this country. These diseases, along with arthritis, mental illness and other crippling diseases, cost us $35 billion a year. Federal appropria-tions for medical research are barely one per cent of this total!

The Democrats view adequate medical care as a national problem, one in which the Federal Government must offer assistance. The Republicans say things are fine as they

The Democrats disagree. We propose more research, more hospitals, more doctors. We plan a special program of medical care fol

For today's Americans, the old ways which overlooked the needs of millions are not good

"The right to adequate medical care and the opportunity to achieve and enjoy good health."

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM THE ANSWER

The Democratic platform does not shy away from the problem of medical care, even though ambitious Republican lobbyists in Washington

The Democratic Platform proposes: MEDICAL CARE for the aged, financed through Social Security, without a pauper's oath to qualify. Medical benefits should be a right, not a charity.

MEDICAL RESEARCH: The Democratic President will summon to a White House scientists to map a coordinated long-range program for the prevention and control of major diseases. This cooperation will extend to other nations.

HOSPITALS: Expand and improve the hospital construction program.

DOCTORS: Federal aid for constructing, expanding, and modernizing schools of medicine, dentistry, nursing and public health scholarships and other assistance for medical education. MENTAL HEALTH: Provide greatly increased Federal support for psychiatric research and training and community mental health programs to help bring back thousands of our hospitalized mentally ill to full and useful lives in the community.

Senator Kennedy emphasizes that the need to protect the welfare of our older citizens is one of the great challenges of the Sixties, and adds, "protecting them against the economic ravages of disease, chronic illness, and disability is at the very forefront of that challenge." Senator Johnson, answering the question whether the nation can "afford" to make adequate provision for our aged and our sick and our blind, says: "I believe we would beas a nation-in far greater danger should we not do so than if we do make such responsible

"The New Frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises—it is a set of challenges." JOHN F. KENNEDY

THE CHALLENGE

Fifty million Americans - more than one in four-have no insurance protection against the high cost of Piness. For the rest, private health insurance pays, on the average, one-third of the cost of medical care.

The hardest hit are the nation's older people whose income is lowest precisely when medical costs are highest

Heart disease and cancer together account for two out of every three deaths in this country. These diseases, along with arthritis. mental illness and other criopling diseases, cost us $35 billion a year. Federal appropriations for medical research are barely one per cent of this total! The Democrats view adequate medical care as a national problem, one in which the Federal Government must offer assistance. The Republicans say things are fine as they

The Democrats disagree. We propose more research, more hospitals, more doctors. We plan a special program of medical care for For today's Americans, the old ways which overlooked the needs of millions are not good

"The right to adequate medical care and the opportunity to achieve and enjoy good health."

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM THE ANSWER The Democratic platform does not shy away from the problem of medical care, even though ambitious Republican lobbyists in Washington have made it a controversial and emotional The Democratic Platform proposes:

MEDICAL CARE for the aged, financed through Social Security, without a pauper's oath to qualify. Medical benefits should be a right, not a charity.

MEDICAL RESEARCH: The Democratic President will summon to a White House conference the nation's most distinguished scientists to map a coordinated long-range program for the prevention and control of major diseases. This cooperation will extend to other nations.

HOSPITALS: Expand and improve the hospital construction program.

DOCTORS: Federal aid for constructing, expanding, and modernizing schools of medicine, dentistry, nursing and public health scholarships and other assistance for medical education.

MENTAL HEALTH: Provide greatly increased Federal support for psychiatric research and training and community mental health programs to help bring back thousands of our hospitalized mentally ill to full and useful lives in the community.

Senator Kennedy emphasizes that the need to protect the welfare of our older citizens is one of the great challenges of the Sixties, and adds, "protecting them against the economic ravages of disease, chronic illness, and disability is at the very forefront of that challenge." Senator Johnson, answering the question whether the nation can "afford" to make adequate provision for our aged and our sick and our blind, says: "I believe we would beas a nation-in far greater danger should we not do so than if we do make such responsible

to the voters D. ELMER HAWBAKER

Candidate for

STATE SENATOR

SAYS

In my campaign I have met many of you. With some I have discussed my background. I have told you that I have worked at a machine in the shops; that I am a farmer and businessman; that I am an active church layman; a veteran of World War II; that with my wife, a school teacher, and because of my children. I have an abiding interest in education; that I have participated in community activities.

I mentioned these out of no sense of personal accomplishment, but only to show my interests and training. I will appreciate it very much if you will vote for me, D. Elmer Hawbaker for State Senator on November 8.

In my campaign I have met many of you. With some I have discussed my background. I have told you that I have worked at a machine in the shops: that I am a farmer and businessman; that I am an active church layman; a veteran of World War II; that with my wife, a school teacher, and because of my children. I have an abiding interest in education: that I have participated in community activities.

I mentioned these out of no sense of personal accomplishment, but only to show my interests and training. I will appreciate it very much if you will vote for me, D. Elmer Hawbaker for State Senator on November 8.
